As a candidate for the Executive Committee of AIPS Europe, I would like to contribute to a more inclusive and forward-looking sports media community. With more than 15 years of experience covering football across Europe, I have witnessed how our profession has evolved and the challenges that journalists – especially women – still face in the industry. Women remain underrepresented in many areas of sports journalism and sports photography.

Since 2025, I have the honour of serving as the first female president of the Luxembourg Association of Sports Journalists. This role has strengthened my commitment to representing our profession and supporting the development of sports journalism at both national and European level.

Throughout my career, I have also had the opportunity to report from major international events, including the Olympic Games and the Games of the Small States of Europe. These experiences have allowed me to connect with colleagues from many countries.
